Officials See Need For Town Buildings, Agree To Re-locate

An overwhelming majority of town officials have agreed that new municipal buildings will be needed in the next five years - and have approved the idea of relocating the structures.

It took more than an hour of discussion and soul searching last Thursday night, but when individual officials were asked, they responded with positive statements of the need.

The Planning Board gave assent; the Assessors approved; the Housing Authority concurred; the town manager vigorously endorsed the need; and three of the five Selectmen were recorded in favor.

The two dissenting votes came from Selectman William Stewart and B. Allan Rowland.

Mr. Stewart said the matter of relocation was being questioned, and he did not agree to this. But he did not, at the same time, feel that there is no need for the facilities. In his opinion, the question of relocation was under consideration, rather than need.

Mr. Rowland, calling Urban Renewal a "socialistic scheme" thought a police station is needed; he proposed that town hall renovations be made, and the present

AGREEMENT REACHED ON U. R. STATISTICS

An undisputed dollar advantage will be gained by the town, through building municipal facilities in combination with Urban Renewal.

That was the near-unanimous opinion of assembled town officials last Thursday night.

The officials agreed on a set of cost estimates and anticipated income from Urban Renewal, to form the basis for discussion of the pros and cons of the program. Full coverage of the several areas of discussion during the meeting is available in this issue.

Increased Tax Income Is Seen From Finished Project

Combined town boards, with almost unanimous action, have agreed on cost estimates and anticipated tax income, resulting from Urban Renewal and building municipal facilities.

They reached these conclusions: Urban Renewal will cost $16,534 a year for 20 years, based on $359,300 total cash outlay by town.

Tax income from Urban Renewal area, when project is completed, will be $43,500 in excess of the present income.

Thus the net increased tax income to the town is $26,966, each year after project is done, compared to tax income now.

Construction of a new town hall, police station and separate fire station - not considering sites - will cost the same, with or without U. R.

Site Costs

Combined with Urban Renewal, the site acquisition cost picture is:

Town pays Urban Renewal $19,812 - the figure guaranteed by the government - for general High st. site for town hall and police station.

Town pays at least $81,300 for same site - this is present assessed value only.

Kimballs Selected For Christ Church Honor

C. CARLETON KIMBALL

Mr. and Mrs. C. Carleton Kimball were honored at the 127th annual meeting of the Parish of Christ Church Monday, when they were given the annual award of "Couple of the Year".

Mr. Kimball formerly had been senior warden for 14 years. The couple were cited for their long record of devoted service in many areas of the life of Christ Church.

The annual meeting elected Phillips B. Marsden Jr. and Donald S. Thompson as Church wardens.

The meeting opened with a service of Evening Prayer, following a supper in the Parish House. The meeting was called to order by the rector, the Rev. J. Edison Pike, who then gave his annual pastoral report in which he traced the recent great growth of the Parish and called for intensive commitment in the year to come. In the year 1962 Church attendance, baptisms, confirmations and Church membership were at an all-time high.

Kenneth S. Minard, who has been parish clerk for 25 years, was given an ovation for his devoted service. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Berry were also thanked for their loyal service in distributing hundreds of thousands of books and

48-Hour Week Stays On Ballot

The 48-hour-week for firefighters must go on the ballot.

Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien has ruled that, despite requests to withdraw the question, it must go to the voters for action.

Fire Lt. Raymond LaRosa had sought to take the question off the ballot, after Town Manager Thomas E. Duff agreed to place the men on a 48-hour week starting Sept. 1.

It had been the announced intention of the firefighters to withdraw the question, if agreement could be reached.

However, Mr. O'Brien stated, in a written reply, that this can not be done, after the original petition has been filed.

It was last weekend that Mr. Duff met with the firefighters, and agreed to start the shorter week next September.

In the meantime, the department must add a total of seven men.

Chief Henry L. Hilton has explained that two men must be advanced in rank, to become a deputy chief and a lieutenant.

A 46-article town warrant has been officially closed - and the Selectmen have grouped the articles for consideration by town meeting.

That session begins at 9:30 a.m., with a day-long effort forecast for interested voters, March 9.

Of chief interest are the Urban Renewal articles - scheduled to begin with article 18.

Prior placement has been given to annual appropriations within the budget and some other spending articles.

Total value of all the articles is pegged at $3,412,000.

Chief among the proposed expenditures is the new town hall, police and fire stations, at $1,500,000.

Urban Renewal is listed at $359,300.

The sewer projects to be done with accelerated federal funds come to $880,000.

Rogers Brook is listed at $150,000; land acquisition at $100,000; stabilization fund, $100,000.

The annual request for water improvements, at $90,000, is included.

Other expenditures requested are: drainage, $52,500; Chapter 90, $54,000; layout of unaccepted streets, $2,000; sidewalk on Lovejoy rd., $35,000; land at mouth of (Continued on Page Two)

GAPING HOLE LEFT - This is the highway department office - after a driver-less truck got through with it. Obviously the tractor-trailer doesn't believe in signs, or it wouldn't have so thoroughly wrecked the building. Some of the structure had to be cut away to get the tractor out of the office - only the trailer was visible after the impact. The whole has been temporarily covered and the office moved to the Water department building. (Cole) proposed new office building.

The truck-parking article presented last year, and declared invalid by the attorney general, is again offered for approval.

The Selectmen, in another article, seek to place all gravel removal under control, instead of just that gravel which is being offered for sale.

The stabilization fund is proposed by the Finance Committee, and $100,000 is suggested. There is a state law which allows matching funds from the Commonwealth for money drawn out of such an account to help pay for capital expenditures. Thus the town could get some state funds, if the fund is established and money remains in it for at least one year.

However, it has been pointed out that the voters now have full authority to act on the proposal, despite the manager's agreement. If the question gets approval on the ballot, money can be voted for it at town meeting. If the voters turn down the appeal, it can not be voted on at the annual meeting March 9.

D-Day In Shawsheen Monday For Parkers

A rigidly-enforced parking drive will start next Monday in Shawsheen, in an attempt to clear up a renewed crisis in the area.

Town Manager Thomas E. Duff told the Townsman that he will even add manpower to the police department during the necessary hours, to see that every violating car is tagged. And he emphasized that there will be no allowances made for any individuals.

While enforcing the existing regulations, the manager and Selectmen have allowed 30-day emergency on one side of York st. and Riverina rd.

A long discussion at Monday night's Selectmen's meeting determined that there are about 90 cars using these two streets for day-long parking; but there are 185 more parking on other streets around the Raytheon area.

The firm recently lost 127 spaces in its parking lot, following seizure by the state for Route 495. A few additional spaces are lost because of snow removal and piling.

Plant Manager Harry Loebel emphasized that he agrees to an impartial enforcement of the regulations on all of the residential streets, but asked for the two emergency locations.

Robert W. Neil of Balmoral st., head of the Shawsheen Village Improvement Society, also agreed. He warned the Selectmen, however, that the 30-day period shouldn't be extended because doing so results in a permanent situation.

He bluntly told the Board, and Mr. Loebel, that the residents are aroused. They feel that Raytheon has known about the land-taking, and losing some spaces, for a year - but has done nothing to anticipate the emergency.

Mr. Loebel pointed out that several outlying parking areas have been explored, with the plan to shuttle employees into the plant. But none has been available, he explained.

He also wanted to know whether existing zoning laws would allow parking - and mentioned "there are so many quirks to the zoning law that, even if it's commercially zoned, it doesn't mean cars can be parked".

Selectman William Stewart suggested an old gravel pit, what he called a "natural arena" off Route 93 near the Tewksbury line. This would be handy for employees coming into Andover from the south, he thought.

Mr. Duff commented that the town has responsibilities to all parties - the residents in Shawsheen and the company.

There was no action taken on one suggestion by Mr. Neil - he wanted the town to require all cars off the streets, believing that Raytheon would solve the problem if forced to do so by that drastic measure. He also noted that each parking crisis in the area has been solved only after complaints have been made and petitions filed with the Selectmen.

You deserve praise when you save money. You should feel good all over when you put savings into the Lawrence Co-operative Bank.

It takes more brains and imagination to save money than it does to spend it. Anybody can spend. But only smart people can look ahead and imagine the $1,000 or $5,000 they are going to have someday if they save regularly.

So pat yourself on the back if you are a steady saver at Lawrence Co-op. Thousands of contented people now save here or have home loans from us. Our good dividends not only add to your savings, but actually encourage you to save.

We are small enough to give you warm, smiling, INSTANT service, whenever you come in. And we are right smack in the middle of town, easy to reach.

WHO REMEMBERS THIS? The old M. T. Walsh plumbing and heating concern occupied this building on Essex st., converting it from the railroad station. The latter facility was moved to its present location way back in the 1800's. After the plumbing and heating firm moved out, the structure was again converted, into the Andover Playhouse, which stands there today. (Photo courtesy of Fred Cheever)

The Rector, Wallace E. Brimer and William W. Rhoads were re-elected trustees of Christ Church Cemetery. Mr. Rhoads, the Cemetery executive secretary, told of extensive tree planting which will begin in the Cemetery in the spring.

The elected delegates to the Diocesan Convention are Phillips B. Marsden Jr., Donald G. Thompson and Charles B. Cottrell. The delegates to the Archdeaconry Convention are Robert B. Deyermund, Fay H. Elliott and Miss Florence E. O'Hara. Mrs. T.R.D. Collins and Charles B. Cottrell are the representatives to the Andover Council of Churches. Mrs. Sydney W. Pollard was appointed the director of the Church Periodical Club.

C. Carleton Kimball presented the Report of the Long Range Planning Committee, which outlined the need for a building program and announced the engaging of Shepley, Bulfinch, Richardson & Abbott as architects for the building program.

The Missions and Christian Social Relations Committee drew special notice for its work, especially the project of the successful resettlement of a Cuban refugee family.

It was announced at the meeting that the Rev. J. Edison Pile had been elected by the Episcopal Clergy of the Merrimack District of the Archdeaconry to succeed the Rev. Harold Deacon of Grace Church, Lawrence, who had resigned for reasons of health.

It was also announced that Christ Church would be the host church for the annual Men's and Boys' Washington's Birthday Corporate Communion for the Merrimack District.

The plans for the proposed Visitation of the Rt. Rev. Asa Phelps Stokes, Bishop of Massachusetts, and the Bishop Suffragan, the Rt. Rev. John C. Burgess, in the week of March 3, include a confirmation at Christ Church March 4. A Youth Reception for the Bishops by the District Youth will be held at Phillips Academy March 3, and a tour of the Andover Raytheon Plant by Bishop Stokes and the area Clergy, will be held March 5.

The retiring officers of the parish were thanked for their service. Retiring from office were Edmund R. Taylor as warden, Kenneth S. Minard as clerk, Lincoln Giles and Albert R. Swenson as vestrymen. At the 11 a.m. Service Sunday, there will be a Service of Installation for the new officers of the parish and recognition of those retiring from office.

Will Construct Office Building

A Georgian Colonial office building will be constructed on Florence st., with a completion date of May 1.

Robert E. Wilson of Andover took possession of the property recently, and has announced plans for the structure.

Neighbors in the area have been upset - many have claimed they did not know that the area is zoned for such purposes.

A building permit has been issued, however, on the basis that the portion of Florence st. was zoned in 1936.

Residents have asked for an Appeal Board hearing to seek reversal of the permit, and this is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 7 in the conference room at town hall.

Three offices will be located in the building, with about 10-15 employees. Parking will be furnished to the rear of the property.

The construction estimates run to $42,000, and the building will have a brick veneer finish - directly copying a home in Alexandria, Va., with the exception of one chimney.

The new building will be elec-

INVITED TO ATTEND LECTURE ON OWLS

For two years, many Essex County people with interest in nature have been meeting on the first Monday of each month at the Barn of the Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ipswich River Sanctuary in Topsfield.

John Holt of North Andover will talk on "Owls in the Field" at the next meeting which will be Feb. 4 at 7:45 p.m. in the Barn. This will be a great attraction as Mr. Holt is a young man who has spent many, many hours in the field studying and enjoying Owls.

For the evening of Feb. 15, the Club has an Owl walk scheduled to start at the Sanctuary Barn at 7:30. Similar walks last year were very exciting. Everyone should come prepared to walk in the woods.

Need Funds For Christmas Lights

The Christmas Lighting Committee of the Andover Board of Trade has filed an article for the March town meeting requesting $1,000 to help defray the cost of the new Christmas decorations purchased last year, so that additional decorations may be purchased this year to expand the lighting program. Board President Raymond B. DeRuisseau, announced the action.

On recommendation of the Lighting Committee, the Directors voted to have such an Article inserted in the Town Warrant after reviewing a study of what other nearby communities such as North Andover, Methuen and Salem, N.H., contribute in the way of financial aid to their lighting programs. Many other communities also provide aid.

The directors realize that the major responsibility and financial aid should rightfully come from the merchants and businessmen of the community, but the directors also felt that the town has a responsibility to help in providing a Christmas lighting display for which the town and citizens can be proud.

Selectman Philip K. Allen told the meeting "there's a need to relocate as well as a need for a new facility. A good combination of urban renewal and relocation is probably what I'd vote for."

The meeting was called by the Realty Trust, to find out whether there is a need for the town hall, and what the officials felt about relocation.

The Finance Committee, also represented at the session, did not take part in the discussion.

Chairman Phillips B. Marsden said the FinCom will consider these facts and figures in the light of all proposed expenditures.

Do budgets have a bearing on needs?" wondered Assessor Archie MacLaren. Marsden responded that "our concern is to state ability of the town (to pay) the needs, in one year."

At no time in the evening did the FinCom agree or disagree with any figures presented.

It was pointed out in the session that the town is breaking its own requirements. In the way the town hall has been reinforced. Former building Inspector Ernest N. Hall gave a resume of the structural problems in the building.

Mr. Duff commented "I'm a strong proponent of these facilities; we're in dire need of them." He also pointed out that part of the decision rests in the area of planning for growth; stressing that facilities should not be broken up building them piecemeal.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Where Are The Candidates?

At Townsman press time, there were few candidates for any of the top three jobs — one apiece, to be exact.

This is a dangerous course of action for the voters to pursue — the end result of apathy is bad government.

We're not being critical of the candidates — just being practical, in that most people prefer to have a choice between two qualified persons for each job.

Certainly there can be no question of the importance of the posts.

Selectmen are the top policy making officers of the town. There's one to be elected.

The School Committee has vast responsibilities — there's one vacancy.

The Housing Authority, mostly because of Urban Renewal, is in the spotlight. Again, there is a vacancy.

Where, we ask, are those public-spirited citizens who, 11 months of the year, demonstrate their interest in town affairs? During this one month, when it's time to get nomination papers filled out, there's a dreadful silence.

Secondary School Plans

Tentative — perhaps at this date speculative — plans for a secondary school are beginning to take shape.

There have been no firm decisions, except that the land owned by the town, and acreage in the high school parcel, are considered to be a good site for whatever is built. There are over 70 acres available.

One item under discussion, however, bears watching.

It is the disclosure that state aid will not be available for interior renovations of the existing high school, if a decision is made to add onto that structure. Neither will there be aid available for an addition to the present junior high, because of its age.

In this day and age, there seems to be a dependance on state aid when building schools. If we are to be consistent, should we not rule out those suggested projects that can not qualify? Otherwise, we must come to the conclusion that the town would be better off to go on its own.

It looks now as though a new high school may be the best answer; converting the existing high school to junior high use may be the least expensive of the several conversion or addition methods suggested.

Whatever happens, we can be certain that the new plant will not be inexpensive; but if the school can be designed to handle the town's growth over a longish period of time, we may be better off to get the project underway fairly soon.

At Long Last, Agreement

At long last, there is some agreement on the cost estimates, and potential income, from the Urban Renewal project.

Now the town can go forward in its deliberations, knowing that each person is talking about the same set of facts, after all the long months of confusion.

Whether or not Urban Renewal is approved, it is vital to the success of any democratic body, such as town meeting, to have before it all of the facts and estimates. The only way to reach a logical conclusion is to weed out the red herrings, the false or the erroneous or the misleading statements. This has to be done before town meeting — the voters don't have the time to do all this work at the meeting itself.

We suggest that each voter can now get the figures which have been agreed upon as being accurate — they should be studied before minds are made up pro or con.

As Joseph H. Blunt was driving to the depot Wednesday morning with his usual load of milk for the 7:45 train to Boston, the harness broke and started his horse into a run. The pump was overturned near the Episcopal Church and the horse was stopped at the depot. Spilled milk was the only damage.

When The Wind Howls, Watch Out For Frostbite

Ever feel sorry for arctic explorers, shivering in sub-zero weather? Don't, says Boston's Museum of Science, pointing out that you can be just as cold on a windy day in Boston as you can be on a calm day at the North Pole.

This is one of the astonishing facts brought to light by Museum Director Bradford Washburn in his recently published paper, "Frostbite: what it is; how to prevent it; emergency treatment."

In it, Washburn reminds that air itself is a very poor thermal conductor, and cold air alone is not nearly as dangerous a freezing factor as is a combination of wind and cold.

Thus, the chilling effect of a temperature 20 degrees above zero (Fahrenheit) combined with a 45-mile wind is just as bad as a temperature of 40 degrees below zero coupled with a two-mile breeze! In either case, dangerous frostbite or frostnipping can occur, with serious damage to body tissue resulting.

A new traffic control tower in the Square has been proposed, as one of the projects the Board of Trade would like to have accomplished.

Washburn warns against taking a case of frostbite lightly. A bad frostbite injury, he says, is just as serious as a bad burn and should be treated with the same care and attention.

For first aid, he recommends rapid rewarming of the affected part in water at 110 degrees, for about 20 minutes. Once this rewarming process has begun, the patient should be considered a litter case and should not be permitted to walk or move around.

Wrap the injury in soft gauze or like material, and get to a doctor as soon as possible. Subsequent treatment should be undertaken only by people who know how and only in a place where the patient can be kept continuously warm, comfortable, and at rest.

Trees Like
Snow Cover

Trees eat, drink and breathe in winter. They like a skyfull of snow dumped at their feet. They don't mind a little ice on their twigs, not too long. Nor winter winds, as long as they don't break limbs or tear off twigs.

Dr. Edward J. Duda has come to know trees intimately. And he has found in evergreens and even in green parts of deciduous trees and shrubs that food is manufactured daytime in winter when temperatures are above freezing, the same process that goes on in summer.

Why, even witch hazel and alder have been known to flower in winter.

Evergreens breathe - exchange gases, that is - through tiny pores in needles and leaves. And in winter, deciduous trees do the same thing, only through lenticels, openings on twigs and younger bark. Breathing also takes place through tree roots, winter as well as summer.

Eating or feeding occurs ever so slightly too through hairroots when soil about them is not frozen solid. In fact, roots sometime make a spurt in growth during a January thaw or February warm spell.

But the greatest boon to a tree in winter is water. That's why snow cover is welcomed, for beneath a heavy snow the ground is seldom frozen solid. This permits the roots to absorb moisture - merely to keep on living but more importantly to keep from drying.

All trees must replenish moisture lost in winter to high drying winds else they are in trouble. When serious drying occurs injury follows.

Winter injury varies from year to year, from plant to plant, to tree. But invariably it results from winter drying when the ground is frozen.

That is why trees should go into winter with plenty of moisture around their roots. That is why the resin mulches are recommended for foundation plantings. And if a homeowner wisely applies an anti-wilt spray last fall to broadleaf and narrowleaf evergreens to reduce winter injury, it should be repeated in January and February when there is a warm period or thaw. The rougher stretch of winter drying is yet to come - in February and March.

But the greatest boon to a tree in winter is water. That's why a snow cover is welcomed, for beneath a heavy snow the ground is seldom frozen solid. This permits the roots to absorb moisture and merely to keep on living but most importantly to keep from dying.

All trees must replenish moisture lost in winter to high drift winds else they are in trouble. When serious drying occurs injury follows.

Winter injury varies from year to year, from plant to plant, tree to tree. But invariably it results from winter drying when the ground is frozen.

That is why trees should go into winter with plenty of moisture around their roots. That is why the resin mulches are recommended for foundation plantings. And if a home owner wisely applies an anti-wilt spray last fall to broadleaf and narrowleaf evergreens to reduce winter injury, it should be repeated in January and February when there is a warm period or thaw. The rougher stretch of winter drying is yet to come - in February and March.

BLUE BIRDS MET

Wards Celebrated 50th Anniversary Last Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Ward
(Cole)

More than 100 relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Miles R. Ward of Ballardvale rd. gathered in the vestry of the Andover Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, at a reception in honor of the Wards' 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple has resided in Andover all during their married life, Mr Ward having come here from Waterville, Nova Scotia, at the age of 17. He and the former Katherine Barrett were married Jan 20, 1913, by the Rev. Edmond L. Smiley, pastor of the Flint Street Methodist Church in Somerville.

They have one son, Allen M. Ward of Manchester, Conn. and a grandson, Allen M. Ward Jr., a student at Brown University.

The five members of the immediate family formed the receiving line to greet those who came with gifts and congratulations. Dinner, served by the members of the Friendly Circle of the Baptist Church, proved a fitting climax to the festive celebration.
